Increased Duty on Whisky. The whispers and intimations which have been passing among the knowing ones for some weeks, that Congress would be recommended by the Secretary of the Treasuryt o increase largely the duty on whisky, turns out to have been well founded. Herein is the secret cause which put up 25 cents per gallon the price of whisky within the last few weeks. For a time, it was thought by some that the tax on whisky and tobacco was year ago. If any further increase is made, it should be not less than one dollar a gallon on whisky and 50c per pound on tobacco; and the tax should be placed upon all the whisky dis tilled after this date. If the matter is managed as it was before, there will be enough made to supply a year's consumption, before it is taxed -
